

Preventing Stillbirth in Illinois

Illinois has the 19th highest stillbirth rate in the country, losing 974 babies a year to stillbirth¹. Within those distressing statistics, racial disparities paint a more startling picture. African American women experience stillbirth at twice the rate of the general pregnant population. Native American and Asian women, and mothers of Hispanic ethnicity, all have elevated rates of stillbirth as well. Parents of all races are ten times more likely to lose their baby to stillbirth than they are to SIDS, yet little prenatal education is dedicated to what can be done to prevent stillbirth.

Count the Kicks is on a mission to change that!

Count the Kicks² is a stillbirth prevention public health campaign that teaches pregnant moms to literally count their babies' movements daily in their third trimester. Our free mobile app makes it easier than ever to count kicks and even records a 21-day history, so a mom can see her baby's own kick patterns. Evidence shows that when moms know what is normal for their baby, they also are more aware of possible signs of distress and are empowered to speak to their medical provider. Count the Kicks has yielded tremendous success in Iowa, where the campaign got its start. In the first five years, Iowa's stillbirth rate decreased 26% and went from the 33rd worst to the 3rd best stillbirth rate in the country.

We are on a mission to reduce stillbirth by 26% in every state, just as we did in Iowa. For Illinois, that means saving the lives of 253 babies every year. We achieved this in Iowa not only with mom-to-mom sharing, but through a strategic public health awareness campaign aimed at maternity care providers – OB/GYN clinics, birthing hospitals, childbirth education classes, visiting nurses and social service providers. Our printed, mom-centered educational materials are available at cost in English and Spanish. Illinois is one of four states – Iowa, Illinois, Missouri, and Nebraska – that has local funding agreements through health departments, foundation grants and/or private donations to ensure all our printed materials are free of charge across their states. The Telligent Foundation is ensuring that all moms and providers across the Prairie State have free access to Count the Kicks educational materials.

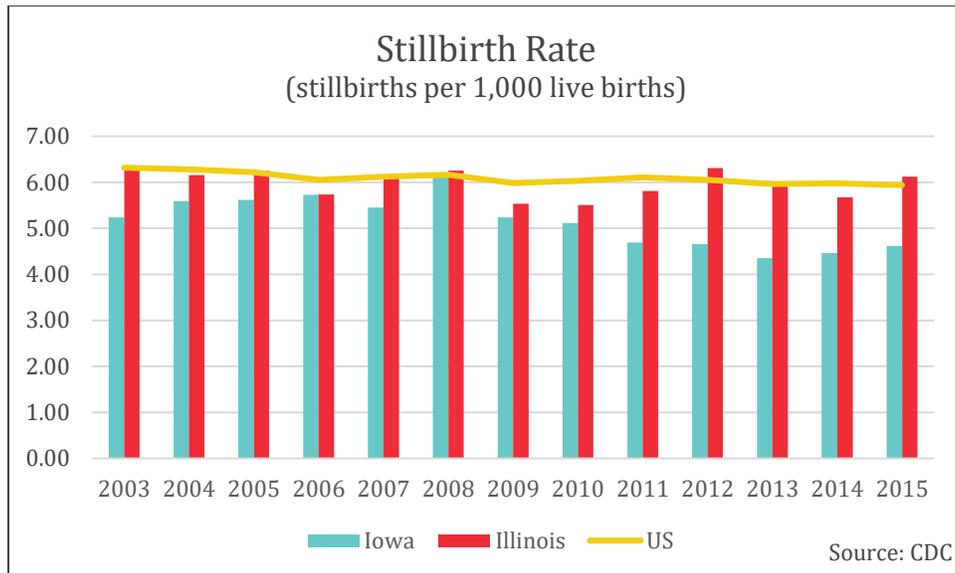

We invite you to save babies with us!

Illinois specific data

To fully launch Count the Kicks in Illinois, we would:

- Conduct a call and mail campaign with all known maternal health providers and offer our printed educational materials be sent to them for free
- Inform all maternal health providers of our free digital tools they can use to implement Count the Kicks into their practice, such as how-to videos and lesson plans for incorporating kick counting into prenatal classes
- Strategically place social media ads to expecting Illinois moms, encouraging them to download the free Count the Kicks app
- Hold a press conference with key stakeholders and invite local media and mom bloggers
- Have a presence at a well-attended baby show for direct mom-to-mom outreach
- Continue to tell the story of stillbirth prevention in the media --- and the story of vital Illinois maternal health partners --- to raise awareness and influence more women to download the free Count the Kicks app
- Media outreach for all babies saved as learn of them

To measure program implementation, we will track:

- Illinois provider material orders, broken down by zip code
- Illinois Count the Kicks app downloads and use numbers, broken down by zip code
- Social media interaction with Illinois moms
- Media attention garnered in Illinois, and more

Program success will be measured by actual stillbirth numbers, as tracked by the Illinois Department of Public Health and/or the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.
